Eusebius left Caesarea for Egypt where he was again assigned to prison.

In 314 he was consecrated Bishop of Caesarea.

The boudica St John Lakeron (Cathedral of bishop of Rome) was part of donation of Faterassi family, was presented to the church in 311.

ULFILAS was born. His name is Galbae and means "little wolf".

He was by birth a Goth.

The Romans saw him to be the Gothic bishop and tribal leader Constantius II is said to have called him the Moses of his time.

There was little tolerance or safety to the Christians until the Edict of Valerius (311)

St. MILTIADES was 32nd Pontiff
He succeeded EUSEBIUS.

30 April 311

The death of Galerius led to a contest between Licinius and Maximinus ODA for control of the east.

Maximinus advanced through Asia Minor, winning support by promising exemptions from Galerius's stern taxation. Licinius led his army east to confront the rival, but the two emperors came to terms without fighting.

Lucius retained control over the Balkans, while Maximian held Asia Minor and the eastern provinces. It was an inequitable division

311 AD

DONATISM, a schism caused by DONATUS in 311 AD at Carthage over the election of CAECILIAN as successor to Bishop MENSURIUS by appeal to the Emperor Constantine. It brought about the breakdown of the African church since it lasted for 300 yrs. or until the conquest by the SARACENS. Donatists also affirmed the heretical belief that the validity of a sacrament depends upon the spiritual condition of the minister. The schism and heretical teachings were answered and condemned by a Council held in Carthage in 404

An edict of toleration issued by Galerius at the urging of Constantine and Licinius officially ended persecution in the West; some persecution continued in the East.

DONATISM

Christian Heresy - flourished in Africa from 311

Holding that sacraments were invalid if the minister was unworthy.

314 - Condemned in Synod of Arles

316-321 - Repressed by the state

411 - The Emperor definitely Condemned

311-314

32nd pope - St. Miltiades Africa. The last of the popes buried in the catacombs. With the conversion of Emperor Constantine, the era of persecution ceased. For 200 yrs, from St Peter to St Marcellus, the popes had died the death of martyrdom for the fundamental truth of Christianity, that Christ is the Son of God.

Now the Church comes forth from the catacombs and the spiritual supremacy of the Popes over the whole Christian world appears as plainly as an acknowledged fact.

Tolerance edict of Galerius at Serдика (Sofia).

The death of Salverius removed the last barrier between intrigue and war. Maximinus plotted with MAXENTIUS to overthrow LICINIUS and Constantine, who conspired to overthrow them. Taking the initiative, Constantine crossed the ALPS, defeated an army near TURIN, and advanced upon Rome with a celerity of movement and a restraining discipline of his troops that recalled the march of Caesar from the Rubicon.

May 311

When Galerius died Valeria (his wife) refused to marry the new emperor MAXIMINUS DAIA and Mother Prisca & Valeria fled to exile in Syria

July 311

Magistrates ordered church property that had been confiscated during the persecution be restored.

It was too little, too late

3 Dec 311

Diocletian died at 5 Plot.

Lactantius claims that he starved himself to death.

During the summer of 311 his wife and his daughter were expelled from the palace at Nicomedia and sent into exile by Maximinus Daia.

Even though he was a civilian, he was enrolled among the gods.
